LEBANON'S ROGER FEGHALI HOLDS OVERNIGHT LEAD ON 2009 FIA TROODOS RALLY

MERC Championship leader Al-Rajhi exits on first stage – plans Superally;
Defending champ Al-Attiyah sits 2nd

With the FIA Middle East Rally Championship moving to Cyprus this weekend for the 2009 Troodos Rally, Lebanon's Roger Feghali and co-driver Nicola Arena hold the overnight lead in their Mitsubishi Lancer Evo IX. Feghali delivered an assured drive today and enters Sunday with a 5.3 second lead over defending MERC champion Nasser Al-Attiyah of Qatar.

In the build-up to the event, a tense battle had been expected between championship leader Yazeed Al-Rajhi of Saudi Arabia and Al-Attiyah, but Al-Rajhi's hopes of a strong finish were short-lived when he and French co-driver Matthieu Baumel exited in dramatic fashion on the first stage of the day. Their Peugeot 207 S2000 landed badly after a jump, left the road and ended up perilously close to a sharp drop. Speaking at the Service Park later, Al-Rajhi said he plans to Superally tomorrow.

While Al-Rajhi's hopes of scoring high points were quickly dashed in SS1, Al-Attiyah's claim to be taking a cautious approach certainly didn't stop him taking the first stage of the day – the 20.53km Agios Nicolaos stage – in 18m.36s. Al-Attiyah has made this event his own in recent years by taking six consecutive victories and he's clearly gunning for a 7th. He is competing in a Subaru Impreza N15 2009, alongside co-driver Giovanni Bernacchini of Italy.

From the outset, Feghali showed impressive pace in his Mitsubishi - finishing SS1 15.3 seconds behind Al-Attiyah, but young Cypriot star Nicos Thomas was chasing hard, just 0.7 seconds behind Feghali in his own Evo IX. Misfer Al-Marri, who currently sits in 2nd place in the championship (7 points behind Al-Rajhi and 1 point ahead of Al-Attiyah), could only manage 7th fastest through the stage, 47.2 seconds behind Al-Attiyah. Lebanon's Nick Georgiou was marginally quicker, finishing the stage 6th. Popular Cypriot drivers Paraskevas Paraskeva and Constantinos Tingirides finished the stage 4th and 5th fastest respectively.

Feghali picked up the pace still further in SS2 (the 13.62km Panagia stage), finishing it 4.3 seconds faster than 2nd fastest Thomas. But Al-Attiyah wasn't giving much ground, charging through the stage just 0.6 seconds behind Thomas. Paraskeva and Georgiou sped through the stage 4th and 5th fastest respectively, with Tingirides and Al-Marri close behind.

A puncture cost Al-Attiyah time in SS3 and the rest of the field were quick to capitalize. Thomas sped through the 21.76km Xeropigi/Stavros stage in 23m 37 seconds, with Feghali hard on his heels just 3.9 seconds behind. Georgiou managed 3rd fastest, with Al-Attiyah 4th. Tingirides and Al-Mari came 5th and 6th.

8 competitors were out of the day's competition by first service, including Al-Rajhi. Khalid Al-Suwaidi of Qatar was forced to abandon the day through the recurrence of a virus and it is currently unknown if he will choose to continue tomorrow. Also out were Qatari Abdulaziz Al-Kuwari, and Cypriot drivers Paraskevas Paraskeva, Andreas Philippou, Yiotis Chartoupallos, Chris Arneftis, and George Paphitis.

The Troodos Rally is always a friendly event and the mood in the Service Park – located just metres from the Mediterranean – has been typically upbeat. The special stages met with largely positive comments from the competitors as they headed out from lunchtime service to tackle the morning loop again.

Al-Attiyah was taking no prisoners as he set the fastest time through SS4 (Agios Nicolaos), with Feghali 8.4 seconds slower. Thomas and Tingirides set 3rd and 4th fastest times, with Georgiou 5th.

Feghali hit back on SS5 (Panagia), taking the stage with a scant 0.5 second margin over Al-Attiyah, with Thomas, Tingirides, and Simos Galatariotis completing the first 5. Nick Georgiou (arrived at SS5 13 minutes late and incurred a time penalty) came in 6th, just ahead of Al-Mari.

The fast time obviously inspired Feghali, as he also took SS6 (Xeropigi-Stavros) - this time with a 8.2s margin over Al-Attiyah. Thomas came through 3rd, with Tingirides 4th and Al-Mari 5th. Feghali's consistent drive earned him a 5.3 second overnight lead over second-placed Al-Attiyah. Nicos Thomas sits 3rd. 42.1 seconds behind the Qatari, with Tingirides and Al-Mari rounding off the top 5.

Today saw drivers tackle a total of 316.14km, including 111.84km of special stage action. Tomorrow, crews will cover a further 383.30km, including 139.22km of Special Stages. Parc Ferme out is at 07:00 on Sunday morning, with the first car entering the first stage of the day SS7 (Anadiou Dam) at 07:58. The first car enters SS8 (Foinokli) at 08:56, SS9 (Argaka) at 09:49. SS10 (Stavros) starts at 10:42 and crews then return to Service at 12:07. Crews will then head out for the last four stages of the event – SS11 (Anadiou Dam) at 13:15, SS12 (Foinokli) at 14:13, SS13 (Argaka) at 15:06, and finally SS14 (Stavros) at 15:59. Cars will return to the Service Park for final service at 17:04.

The Finish ceremony and prizegiving will get underway at 17:30 at Geroskipou town square.

Following its successful move to the west coast of the island last year, the Troodos Rally is once again based around the popular town of Geroskipou. The event Headquarters, Press Office and Service Park are located in and around Geroskipou's Riu Cypria Maris hotel.
